Jason Middlebrook (b. 1966)

Liz O'Brien is pleased to present these two lamps. A result of a collaboration between Stephen Antonson and Jason Middlebrook. Stephen Antonson's Blackborow lamp was inspired by glacier forms. Jason painted one lamp monochrome and the other polychrome.

Jason Middlebrook is a mixed-media contemporary artist who works in sculpture, installation, site specific projects, painting, and drawing. He lives and works in Hudson, NY.

Jason Middlebrook was born in Jackson Michigan in 1966. He studied art at UC Santa Cruz and his Master of Fine Arts degree in 1994 from the San Francisco Art Institute. He also participated in the Independent Study Program at the Whitney Museum of American Art, New York, NY in 1994-1995, and completed an Iaspis Residency in Stockholm, Sweden in 2009-2010.
